3.1 Explain the importance of teamwork when working on a film production

Why is teamwork important when working on a film production?	Teamwork is important so that everyone knows what they're doing. If no one knows what they're doing, lots of things will go wrong. For example, if the cinematographer cut when the director only wanted to stop, it would cause lots of issues when editing. Everyone needs to listen to the director so that everyone can work as a team to get the best/right shot.
What can happen if there isn't good teamwork?	An example of bad teamwork would be if the cinematographer cut instead of stopping, it would cause lots of issues when editing. If no one worked as a team there would be lots of production delay which would cost lots more money to pay everyone to re-shoot.
